In order to furnish an opportunity for a discussion of the subject "Children Health, Mothers' Meeting will be held this week in various parts of town.

Each meeting will begin at 3:30 p.m. and the program will consist of a talk by Dr. W. Scott Piper, on the subject "Some Physical Causes of Underweight Conditions," and a discussion on "Food for Children," by Mary Kate Biers, of the State College of Home Economics' Extension Service.

The schedule for the meetings is as follows:

Tuesday, May 11—3:30 p. m., Ward School building (West Side).

Wednesday, May 12—3:30 p. m., Fourth Ward School building (East Side).

Thursday, May 13—3:30 p. m., Market Street School building (Third Grade).

Friday, May 14—3:30 p. m., High School building.

forces of the sticky, slippery old poeprite on the run. McKean, realizing the efficiency and economy of good roads, decided that it was better to build them right now, and not 10 years or 15 years from now. A bond issue of $750,000 for road roads was approved by the voters at the general election last November. Cambria county has out a main market system of 75 miles of road which they intend to improve in a permanent manner with a $1,000,000 bond issue during the next two years. Talk of a road bond issue in Lawrence County, Greene and Erie counties is also being heard.

Does any one for a minute imagine that these counties which have already expressed their desire for roads by a bond issue will not receive more consideration from the State Department than will those communities who sit up in their hind legs and "want good roads, but we want to pay for them." Of they will, and rightly so. As we pass a bond issue for $500,000, as we show we are ready to ourselves by actually providing for good road building can we to secure a fair share of state in competition with more progressive communities. "The Lord helps who helps himself." Are you to help yourself?

Now, don't let George do this. Saturday an appeal was made for clothing for two little ten-year-old boys who must be sent to the Ore on the lumber. The appeal was made by Mr. Richard Gilbert. We know that hundreds of people read the appeal, but each one of us thought the other fellow would act. Obey that impulse. Call Mrs. Gilbert NOW.

The treaty with the league of nations hanging around his neck like a millstone, apparently is what the rank and file of Democrats will have to swallow in the coming presidential campaign, if President Wilson continues his way and he usually does in party affairs. The treaty with the League reservations or no treaty at all is the option of the Republicans. If the Democratic national convention decides to endorse the Wilsonian document and the Republicans make their campaign on a no league issue, it will make a very interesting campaign.

The forest fire which is raging on the mountains near Clearfield will mean a financial loss to the owners of the land of several thousand dollars, while the economic loss to the people in general will be beyond estimate. The Progress would like to see a right investigation of the origin of these fires. Criminal carelessness is the cause. They will continue until somebody suffers.

Every mother should attend the mothers' meetings to be held in the various school buildings this week.

In view of the Wilsonian recognition of the Mexican republic under Carranza, and his allowing Carranza followers the right of way over United States soil just last week, we opine that Mr. Wilson knew about as much about the temper of the Mexican people as he did of the American people on the League of Nations issue. The Mexican situation has been bungled about as badly as any international problem this nation ever faced.

The After Effects of Pneumonia

This is No. 2 of a series of advertisements, prepared by a competent physician, explaining how certain diseases which attack the air passages such as Pneumonia, Influenza, Whooping Cough, Measles or even a long continued Cold—often leave their organs in an inflamed, congested state, thus affording a favorable foothold for invading germs. And how Vick's Vapo-Rub may be of value in this condition.

Pneumonia attacks the air cells of the lungs. An inflammation is set up and matter is thrown off which causes the air cells to solidify, thus preventing the natural flow of blood thru the lungs. This "backing up" of the blood causes the heart to pump harder, just as stepping on a hose increases the water pressure, which is the reason why, during this disease, the physician watches the overburdened heart so carefully.

After recovery the lungs are filled with a mass of wreckage—the debris of the battle—which must be gotten rid of by a process known as resolution. Frequently, inflamed spots remain, congestion persists, cough hangs on, and the least exposure brings on a cold that is hard to get rid of. If neglected, such damaged air passages may easily develop serious disease of the lungs.

Such cases should always continue under a physician's care and frequent examinations should be made to see that nature is properly continuing the rebuilding process.

Nightly applications of Vick's VapoRub will aid nature in this work. Because Vicks acts locally by stimulation thru the skin to draw out the inflammation, attract the blood away from the congested spots and relieve the cough. In addition, the medicinal ingredients of Vicks are vaporized by the body heat. These vapors are breathed in all night long, thus bringing the medication to bear directly upon the inflamed areas.

Vicks should be rubbed in over the throat and chest until the skin is red—then spread on thickly and covered with hot flannel cloths. Leave the clothing loose around the neck and the bed clothes arranged in the form of a funnel so the vapors arising may be freely inhaled. If the cough is annoying, swallow a small bit of Vicks the size of a pea.

Samples to new users will be sent free on request to the Vick Chemical Company, 232 Broad Street, Greensboro, N. C.

$8.00 You pay	$6.40
$7.00 You pay	$5.60
$6.00 You pay	$4.80
$5.00 You pay	$4.00

All styles to pick from.

The great demand of the hour is for lower prices on the merchandise that people need. This is our method of co-operating with our customers in lowering the cost of footwear.

Every pair of work shoes for men or boys gets the 20 per cent. cut too. Just think what this will mean to you. You can take your pick of this splendid stock at one-fifth off the regular price.

THIS IS A CASH SALE. NO GOODS CHARGED. NO GOODS ON APPROVAL UNLESS PAID FOR.

20% Off On Every Pair

The Facts Are These:

For a limited time and until further notice, we are offering our entire stock of SHOES and HOSIERY at TWENTY PER CENT DEDUCTION from the actual fair prices already marked on them. This stock totals more than $45,000. The only exceptions are shoe polishes and laces.

The statement that there is 20 per cent deduction from the prices already marked on the merchandise means an actual taking off of ONE FIFTH from the regular prices that has been marked on these goods all season. There have been no changes made in the price tags; it would be impossible to remark them all, but the TWENTY PER CENT deduction is taken off in all cases at the time of purchase.

This sale is straightforward, fair and above board in every particular. We never have, in our history, marked up goods in order to mark them down again and we never will.

We are not selling out, nor clearing away, nor getting rid of stock. Our goods are new and fine. There are the best that money can buy and just as fast as the sales go out new purchases come in.

Everybody Knows Lytle Bros. Merchandise as the standard of trustworthy quality. This is what makes the bigness of this present opportunity for you.

There is probably no other store in Clearfield whose act of service in this price deduction could mean so much benefit to the customer: above all, to such have been tempted to solve the price--enigma by patronizing "cheap jacks" stores where they have to close their eyes to quality--or else keep them very wide open indeed.

"Cheap-jack" never did sell goods of Lytle Bros. quality at less than Lytle Bros. It can't be done. The only store that ever did it--

NEWS OF OUR NEIGHBORS CURWENSVILLE

Last Friday evening the spirit of Mrs. G. Lloyd Addelman passed from earth into its final home. Mrs. Addelman has been in ill health for a number of years, but for the past ten weeks had been unable to leave her bed, she having no real bodily disease, death was brought about by a general breaking down of a once rugged and robust constitution. Her maiden name was Anna Marie Cleaver, a daughter of Nathan and Cynthia Cleaver, and was born and reared in Pike township on December 15, 1842, where she resided until her marriage with Mr. Borsall took place. After a few years of wedded life he died, leaving her a widow with one son, Rueben Borsall. Her second marriage with G. Lloyd Addelman took place December 21, 1869, with whom she lived until the day of her death, and who survives her at the advanced age of 77 years. The family resided on a farm in Pike township until about seventeen years ago, when Mr. Addelman purchased the Hartsock property and moved to town. Mrs. Addelman was a loving wife and mother and also a devout Christian, espousing the faith of the Methodist church early in life, and while her health permitted rarely missed a service. She is survived by her husband, three sons, Charley and Harry Addelman and Rueben Borsall, of this place, one sister, Mrs. Johnston Holden, of Pike township, whose precarious health did not permit her to attend the funeral, and one brother, George Cleaver, also of Pike township; also five grandchildren and five great-grandchildren. Her funeral was held from the home this afternoon at two o'clock. Rev. J. C. Collins, pastor of the M. E. church, having charge of the service. Interment of the body was made in Oak Hill cemetery. Thus another good woman has journeyed to her heavenly home, leaving behind her a home full of sorrow and grief.

John Reesman and wife and Mrs. Helen Reesman, of Tyrone, were Sunday visitors with Curwensville friends. The Reesman family were former residents of the town, but moved to Tyrone some years ago, where Mr. Reesman is employed in the paper mill.

A Serious Feminine Illness Remedied By Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Casco, Wis.—"After the birth of each of my children I had displacement and was so weak I couldn't do anything."

I found a book about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound so I thought I would try it, and after taking it I soon felt better. That was fifteen years ago and I have felt well ever since except that I had a slight attack of the trouble some time ago and took some more of your Compound and was soon all right again. I always recommend your medicine and you may publish my testimonial for the benefit of other women."—Mrs. JAMES BECK, JR., R. 1, Box 29, Casco, Wis.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs, contains no narcotic or harmful drugs, and today holds the record of being the most successful remedy for female ills in this country, and thousands of voluntary testimonials prove this fact.

If you have the slightest doubt that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will help you, write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential), Lynn, Mass., for advice. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman, and held in strict confidence.

The Salvation Army members visited Curwensville yesterday and gave a preaching and song service on various of the town's streets.

Mother's Day meeting in the Methodist church yesterday was a success in every particular. The congregation was an unusually large one, as all of the other churches were holding services at the same hour. The minister preached an especial sermon directed to the mothers, as to their duties to family and church. The white carnation was predominant throughout the church.

Quite a throng of Curwensville residents took their cars and went out on the mountains yesterday afternoon, visiting the different hunting lodges etc they returned.

A crowd of young people drove out to one of the hunting camps on Saturday morning and spent that day and Sunday fishing and studying the beauties of nature's sunrise from a high elevation.

It was reported on Saturday that at a school meeting held on last Thursday evening, Prof. Shields had been retained for another year. It is said that he was not the unanimous choice of the board, but there were enough votes cast for his retention.

of a wide-spread tree.

She colored vividly as I rose to greet her with outstretched hand. "Oh, Mr. Nelson," she cried, "I don't know what you will think of me, asking you to meet me here. I am in trouble. I must tell someone. I don't know what to do!"

"The only thing to do," I suggested, "is to begin at the beginning and tell me the whole story. I've sisters of my own. Just pretend you are one of my sisters and let me help you."

She looked at me thoughtfully, studying me as if questioning whether or not I was to be trusted, and apparently deciding in the affirmative, told me an amazing story.

"It's all about my sister, Claire," she began. "She's five years older than I. She's a lovely girl, but she's—that is, she used to be—impulsive, romantic, and headstrong. She and my mother never got along well together, and she was sent away to boarding school. One winter, it was six years ago, mother was in Europe and only Dad and I were at home."

She sighed sadly. Evidently her words were bringing back to her moments of heartache.

"To make a long story short, Claire ran away from the school and married—married a French chauffeur employed by a family in the neighborhood. She took me into her confidence a week later, and I—well, I told Dad. There was a terrible time about it all. Dad found out that her husband was already married, had a wife and child right here in this city. He had the marriage annulled and managed to keep everything out of the papers. He threatened Claire's husband with prison and made him go back to France. Dad was simply wonderful. No one knew anything about Claire's escapade except ourselves, the principal of the school, and the judge down in Nassau county, who ordered the marriage annulled. Dad kept mother about until after it was all over, and to this day she never has heard a word about it."

"Your father must be a wonderful man," I said enthusiastically.

"He was," she said simply. "He has been dead two years."

"Oh, I'm so sorry," I cried, "I did not know."

"If Dad were alive he would know what to do. You see, when he died, there was not much money left. We're really little better than paupers. We've been living from day to day on our tiny capital, and Mother has been working every wire to arrange a good match for Claire. I wanted to do something, to go out and earn a living for myself, but she never would consent. She insisted I'd be demoralizing Claire's prospects if I went into trade, as she calls it, and I promised her I'd do nothing until after Claire is safely married."

"And is she to be married?" I asked.

A troubled expression came into her face.

"She was to be, but now I don't know. She is engaged to marry young Harry D. Thayer, who is worth a lot of money, but someone has found out about her secret."

"How did they find out?" I asked eagerly. I understood now the mysterious meeting in the park that had brought me first into touch with Barbara Bradford. Some kind of scandal was being talked about. Claire Bradford, and her sister was trying to save her.

"That's the greatest mystery of all," exclaimed Miss Bradford. "Before Dad died he turned over to me all the papers about the annulment of Claire's marriage. Somehow he seemed to rely on me far more than on either Mother or Claire. He explained to me the importance of always keeping them, in case the past should ever crop up, but he charged me to see that they always were safely put away where no one could find them."

"Where did you keep them?" I asked.

"In the wall safe in my sitting room."

"In the wall safe?" I cried, thinking in bewilderment of the coincidence that these papers should have had a similar hiding place to the Gaston jewels which had vanished so strangely.

"Yes," she answered, plainly puzzled at my bewilderment. "It was an excellent hiding place. No one but my self had the combination. I don't know who could have taken them. I found the safe locked as it always was."

"When did you first discover the papers were missing?"

"Let me see," she pondered. "Claire's engagement was announced at a dinner three weeks ago last Thursday. The newspapers on Sunday carried a brief notice of it. Two days later the first note came."

"What note?"

"She reached into the pocket of her riding habit and drew forth a folded slip of paper."

"I brought it with me to show you; here, this is the first one."

Like the mysterious note I myself had received only the preceding night, this one was not enclosed in an envelope. It was just a folded slip, addressed in typewriting to "Miss Claire Bradford." On the other side was this message:

"What if Thayer knew about your being married before? How much will you give to get those papers back?"

"Where did you get this?" I asked. "I found it on the floor of my bedroom one morning when I got up late. I gave it to my sister without having read it, thinking she had dropped it there. She read it and screamed and fainted. Fortunately Mother was out of the house at the time. Naturally I read the note then. I went to the safe and found the documents gone. Claire has been nearly crazy ever since. She insists that it is all my fault. She says I ought to have destroyed the papers, but I couldn't, could I?"

"Of course not," I replied warmly. "You did quite right in keeping them. It was not your fault they were stolen."

"I couldn't destroy them. Dad had told me to keep them," she said simply. "What did you do then? Did you tell your mother?"

"Oh, no, she must never know. Dad did not want her ever told anything about it. We talked it over, Claire and I, and decided to put a personal advertisement in the papers. It simply said, 'Liberal reward and no questions asked for return of important papers.'"

"Were there any answers?"

"Yes and no. One morning there was a second note."

"Delivered like the first?"

"Yes, I found it, too, on the floor of my bedroom. Here it is."

More amazed and perplexed than ever by the growing ramifications of the plots of the thieves that seemed to involve us both, I took the paper and read:

"Ten thousand is our price for the papers. Pay it or you'll never marry Thayer."

"Did you go then to meet the man in the park?"

"Not until after I got a third note, more threatening than the first and second. Claire and I talked it over and over, trying to think who could have taken the papers. We only kept two servants now, Sarah and Mary, and they both have been with us since we were children. It could not have been either of them. They think as much of us as our own mother does."

"Do you suppose the man that she married may have learned of your father's death and have returned from France to try to blackmail her?"

"We thought of that. The notes did not come from him. They do not read as if a Frenchman wrote them."

"Who could it be?" I said more to myself than to her.

"Then there was another note," she went on. "It demanded that Claire wear a red carnation and meet the writer in the park and bring ten thousand dollars. That was the time I first met you. Your presence must have frightened them off, for we had no more demands until night before last."

"Did you have ten thousand with you that night I first met you?"

"She shook her head."

"We haven't ten thousand dollars in the world. Outside of our furniture and our jewels and our motor, we have very little. If all the bills we owe were paid, we'd have almost nothing at all."

"What did you propose doing when you met the man—or men?"

"I didn't know. I was going to try to plead with them to give me the papers. I would have promised anything to have gotten them back."

"But the man—the men—might have harmed you."

"She smiled incredulously."

"Hardly. There was little danger of their attacking me there in the park so near the avenue, with people constantly passing, and besides, I carried this."

She reached again into the pocket of her habit and brought forth a vicious-looking automatic.

"It was Dad's," she said. "He taught me to shoot with it, though I don't think either of us thought there would come a time when I might need it."

"What did the last note say?"

"Here it is."

This was written and folded as the others had been, on the most ordinary kind of writing paper. It read:

"Unless we get the money Wednesday, Thayer gets the papers Thursday. No wedding then for yours. Same bunch at six-thirty."

"What can I do about it?"

"I'll go in your place," I suggested.

"Oh, no, I couldn't permit that."

"Let me explain," I hastened to say. "I'm in this mystery as deep as you are. Only last night I discovered that all the Gaston jewels which had been left in my custody are gone."

"Not stolen?" she cried. "The Gaston pearls?"

"Yes," I replied, "the pearls, too."

"Why, they are worth two hundred thousand dollars at least. What have you done about it? Have you notified the police?"

"No, as yet I have told no one of the robbery but yourself."

"What?"

"I brought it with me to show you; here, this is the first one."

NEPONSET ROOFS

For Buildings of All Kinds

For sloping roofs on residences, garages, bungalows, or public buildings, Neponset Twin Shingles make as handsome and durable a roof as it is possible to find anywhere—and they are most economical.

Neponset Twin Shingles are impregnated with asphalt and heavily surfaced with crushed slate. No wonder they resist time and wear. Their natural slate-red and slate-green colors are restful and beautiful.

They will not catch fire from falling sparks. Because they are two shingles in one and self-spacing, they require less labor and less nails to lay.

INSIST ON GENUINE FORD PARTS

Colds, Coughs and Grippe
BY DR. SAMUEL HAMILTONCommonly the first symptom of a cold is a chilly feeling, accompanied by sneezing or a tickling in the throat. The most frequent causes are getting wet or cold feet, or going from hot rooms suddenly into cold ones, catching cold from contact with other persons in crowded street cars or assemblies.
Frequently there is an inner cause, namely, the stoppage of the blood, caused by constipation or biliousness. No one ever takes cold unless consumed or exhausted, and having what we call indigestion, which is attended with impoverished blood and exhaustion of nerve force. There is a constant absorption of persons into the system, unless the entire intestinal tract is kept clear and clean as possible. For this there is nothing better than Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets.
It is the common practice of every doctor in the land to give a good purgative in any case where the system is out of balance. The first thing to do is to get the bowels moving. For the reason there is nothing better than the old Gold Medal Cough Syrup, a botanical extract which Dr. Pierce put on the market many years ago. This contains no alcohol but does contain wild cherry leaf, which is a powerful cough suppressant and also a powerful expectorant which are not only good for the system but also for the throat and the chest. The very best alternative and tonic that I have ever known for the grippe is a scientific method of treating the blood by improving the nutritive function of the patient. The "Medical Discovery" is a powerful restorative of the enfeebled digestive organs, so that food will be digested and taken up and assimilated by the system. The result is a new force for the system, and blood than the old blood, which is a powerful tonic in liquid or tablet form.

Doctors Favor New Tasteless Castor Oil

New Process Makes Castor Oil
Absolutely Tasteless.

Doctors have always prescribed castor oil when a real laxative is needed, and all mothers know how much trouble it is to get children to take it. There need be no more trouble, for doctors are now recommending KELLLOGG'S TASTELESS CASTOR OIL, from which ABSOLUTELY all nauseating taste has been removed. Children take it readily. They need not even know it is castor oil. This splendid new form of the good old family remedy is the result of a remarkable process perfected by the chemists of Spencer Kellogg & Sons, Inc. In strength and purity KELLLOGG'S TASTELESS CASTOR OIL is exactly the same as the old-fashioned disagreeable kind. Nothing has been removed but the taste. Do not accept substitutes, if you want a really TASTELESS castor oil. At all good druggists. Two sizes, 35c and 65c.

John P. Rogers, of DuBois, one of the Democratic candidates for the Legislature, who is running on a decidedly wet platform and makes no bones about announcing that fact, was a Clearfield visitor today.

Broken Out Skin and Itching Eczema
Helped Over Night.

For unsightly skin eruptions, rash or blotches on the face, neck, arms or body, you do not have to wait for relief from torture or embarrassment, declares a noted skin specialist. Apply a little Menthos-Sulphur and improvement shows next day. Because of its germ destroying properties, nothing has ever been found to take the place of this sulphur preparation. The moment you apply it healing begins. Only those who have had unsightly skin troubles can know the delight this Menthos-Sulphur brings. Even fiery, itching eczema is dried right up. Get a small jar from any good druggist and use it like cold cream.

The Atlantic Story is Told in Miles

At the end of the year, the mileage count of Atlantic Gasoline is told in figures—on the right side of the ledger. It tells of big territory covered, delivery-time saved, quick transportation—and quicker collections. All that because it saves trouble on the road and keeps your trucks going.

Atlantic means economy, because it all burns and is turned into steady, volatile power. It vaporizes fast and works on a lean mixture. It holds no disputes with the spark. Atlantic has range. It compensates for irregularities of climate and temperature. It performs uniformly in mountain country or lowland.

And it works cleanly, without fouling carburetor or cylinders. On with the load and away, with a quick easy start on cold mornings and quick pickup in thick traffic when the cop says "go". Isn't that your kind of gasoline?

It's always on tap at the Red Pump where the Atlantic sign invites you to take on quality—Atlantic quality, with a capital Q.

FOREST FIRE BURNS OVER THOUSANDS OF ACRES

Mountain Lands Denuded of Valuable Young Timber By Work of Incendiaries

Fire Fighters See Deer, Rabbits, Pheasants and Even Deadly Raattlesnakes In Wild Flight Before Wall of Fiercely Burning Leaves, Bracken and Underbrush

HIGH WINDS OF TODAY STIR FLAMES INTO FIERY FURNACE

The woods along Fork Run beyond Viewpoint Camp were fired in several places Sunday morning and the fire started by the firebugs spread over several hundred acres of mountain land in that region and was only prevented from breaking over into Kennedy Park game reserve by the strenuous effort of a large corps of fire-fighters under the intelligent direction of State Forester William F. Dague, Fire Warden W. C. Goss, Hon. Joseph E. Phillips, James McKenrick and Sam Toney, while the Whitner-Steale crew supervised by Supt. Elmer Zimmerman and augmented by more than one hundred Mt. Joy residents, and local sportsmen and citizens combated the flames along Fork Run and around Viewpoint camp and prevented the fire from coming into the woods near the farms.

The mountains were like a tinder pile and when the fire got into the old timber slashings along Fork Run she roared like a furnace and spread with lightning like rapidity.

In addition to destroying much valuable young timber much small game met death in the flames. The writer saw no less than five rabbits, run out of the path of the oncoming blaze and dash madly around in a brief circle and head right back into the burned district over the smoking ground and were caught between the advance of the flames and the back-fire set to stop its rush.

At one point below the McCloskey camp a hen pheasant was chased from her nest of twelve eggs by the smoke and noise of the approaching fire, when it had almost reached her nesting place. She arose in the smoke laden air and circled in a bewildered manner toward the top of the mountain and ran into the smoke and heat from the advancing back-fire. The pheasant disappeared in the smoke for a moment or two and then as the two walls of flame approached within thirty yards of each other and the suction began to draw the two fires together the poor bird was seen to hover over the spot where her doomed nest was located and as the two walls of fire went together with a rush, the flames shot one hundred feet in the air engulfing the pheasant and like a ball of fire the poor bird fell to the ground a mass of flames.

This story details the actual experience of but one of the fire fighters and almost every one along the line near the game reserve could tell similar stories of what they saw, as the country around Fork Run was a great breeding ground for both rabbits and pheasants.

Five deer were also seen getting away from the flames but they managed to keep far enough ahead of fire and smoke to be out of danger.

George Kramer and "Peck" Hubler followed the railroad up Fork Run to the McCloskey camp just after dinner and had quite a thrilling experience getting through the wall of smoke. The fire crossed the railroad track behind them after they had crossed Fork Run and after going some distance up the road they found the fire all along the road and were forced to retrace their steps in an attempt to get out. When they got back near the trestle over the run they found it afire and they were unable to get out that way. They again started up the track and placing wet handkerchiefs over their faces as a protection from the stifling smoke were at last enabled to make it through to the McCloskey camp and safety. At one point along the railroad when they got down to a waterhole to wet their handkerchiefs they found a four foot rattlesnake badly burned which had just managed to crawl out of the fire to the water. He was given the necessary finishing touch and despoiled of his rattles.

The fire extended down along Lick Run and burned the barn at the old Condon place below Viewpoint and the old Thad Shaw shanty below the mouth of Stone Run.

It also crossed Lick Run and is now advancing up the Big Ridge between Lick and Stone runs and the army of fighters hope to hold it at a fire line cut across the ridge to the Barnet dam on Stone Run.

A big fire also started on Trout Run Saturday, a couple of local fishermen saying two boys were responsible for starting it. This fire burned through to Shawville and is said to have destroyed the Lingle timber, a valuable tract in that region.

The fire alarm was sounded about 1:30 Sunday afternoon for the purpose of gathering a force of fire-fighters for the mountains. Many auto loads of men were quickly gathered together and hustled mountainward and remained there until well along in the night, when the fire on this end was finally put out.

The alarm was again sounded at Mayon Chase's suggestion at 7 o'clock and the firemen put to work on a fire in Murray's woods, which threatened Woodland road properties.

Fire Chief Knepp took two truck loads of men to Crooked Run this morning, for the purpose of combating a bad fire in that section.

Twenty-five high school boys also volunteered their services to fight the different mountain fires.

SECRETARY DANIELS PAYS HIS RESPECTS TO ADMIRAL SIMS

WASHINGTON, May 10.—The American people will never forget Admiral Sims for his "poison gas" attack on the United States Navy, Secretary Daniels declared today before the Senate Naval Investigating committee. He expressed regret that he ever recommended Sims for honors. "The navy stands without a trace of the mud with which the Admiral sought to besmear it," the Secretary declared when his liking for Great Britain was an "obsession." Sims' partiality for England was first evident when he promised in a speech in Guildhall in 1910 that if Great Britain ever got into a fight America would do everything to help her. Daniels charged that Sims seemed to accept the views of the British admiralty in preference to his own; that he gave a maximum credit to the British accomplishments while he minimized those of America; that he coveted British decorations and seemed to value them more than those of his own government; that he aspired to become a member of the British admiralty and that he valued protection of merchant shipping as above mine operations.

UP TO CITIZENS OF THIS COUNTY TO CURE BAD ROADS

"The Lord helps them who help themselves" applies not only to individuals but especially to counties in the matter of road building. Attend a road meeting almost anywhere in our Pennsylvania counties and you will find that while those present claim to be in favor of good roads, they spend most of their time cussing out the state department for not building roads for them. Yet when the state department asks for money with which to build these roads or their own counties make similar requests, they back water so fast that they are in imminent danger of breaking their backs.

Pause and look about you for a moment in your struggle through the mud. Who are the big men who are looked up to and respected in your communities which are most progressive? The men who are accustomed to solving their own problems without waiting to receive a boost from someone else? And by looking about you a little further you will find that these communities which are most progressive and which have accomplished the most, are also those communities who are accustomed to, and who expect to pay for what they get in both money and effort.

Our county is at present desirously considering a bond issue for the purpose of improving our roads. In glancing over our sister counties in the western part of the state we find that several of them have already assumed the offensive against "Old King Mud" and have the stubborn forces of the sticky, slippery old hypocrite on the run. McKean county realizing the efficiency and economy of good roads, decided that it wanted them and wanted them right away and not 10 years or 15 years from now. A bond issue of $750,000 for good roads was approved by the voters at the general election last November. Cambria county has laid out a main market system of 75 miles of road which they intend to improve in a permanent manner with a $1,500,000 bond issue during the next three years. Talk of a road bond issue in Lawrence County Greens and Butler counties is also being heard.

Does any one for a minute imagine that these counties which have already expressed their desire for good roads by a bond issue will not receive more consideration from the State Department than will those communities who sit up on their hind legs and howl "we want good roads, but we don't want to pay for them." Of course

REBEL LEADERS ASSURE CARRANZA FAIR TRIAL

UNITED STATES FACES NECESSITY OF FORMULATING NEW POLICY TOWARD OUR SISTER NATION

U.S. SHIP SACRAMENTO AT TAMPICO

The capture of Mexico City, the capital of Mexico, and the flight and capture of President Carranza was confirmed yesterday in dispatches from the capital from the American embassy.

AGUIA PREIETA, Sonora, May 10.—President Carranza deposed head of the Mexican government today was assured trial under the laws of Mexico for any of his offenses in a statement issued by General Elias Calles, the war minister of the revolutionary government. Calles declared Carranza would not be executed.

WASHINGTON, May 10.—The State Department today was confronted with the problem of framing a new Mexican policy following the overthrow and capture of Carranza and the seizure of Mexico City by the revolutionists. Secretary Colby was expected first of all to take steps to protect American interests during the upheaval which will follow the revolution.

Great Britain and France are understood to be looking to the United States for action in the present crisis.

It is likely President Wilson in the cabinet meeting this week will consider what course the United States will take.

United States Marines ordered to Key West Saturday were expected to sail today from League Island it was learned at the Navy department.

On the Texas border United States forces are in readiness.

HUSTON, Texas, May 10.—The United States steamer Sacramento has arrived off Tampico, a radiogram said today.

WILSON GROOMING COLBY AS HOPE OF LEAGUE DEMOCRATS

WASHINGTON, May 10.—Bainbridge Colby, Secretary of State, is the man President Wilson has selected to carry on the fight on the League of Nations issue as the Democratic presidential nominee is the belief among well informed Democrats here today. It is believed one reason why he took Colby into the cabinet was to coach him on the League issues. McAdoo has been mentioned but his friends here are not keen for Father-in-law Wilson to endorse Son-in-law McAdoo. McAdoo is running on his own merit and could get the nomination without White House help.

VICTIM OF ROBBERY DIES

NEW YORK, May 10.—Fred-ene Ruderd, vice president of the White Metal Company who was shot by a robber in his home Saturday night died in St. Mary's hospital at Hoboken today. Two blood transfusions were made in an effort to save his life. Ruderd returned to his home after having spent the evening at the theatre with Miss Elsie Vorrach whom he was to marry in August when he encountered the robber.

1000 P. & L. E. MEN AT PITTSBURGH ON STRIKE

PITTSBURGH, May 10.—More than 1,000 shop men employed by the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie at McKees Rocks and Neville Island failed to report to work today following the vote of the striking yard men. Officials believed the strike would spread to other divisions of the railroad from Connellsville to Youngstown. The lay off of shop men Friday until the congestion was cleared is believed to have precipitated the movement.

REFEREE GLEASON OPENS AN OFFICE AT DU BOIS, PA

The Workmen's Compensation Bureau, of the Tenth District, has been fully established and hearings will be started this week by Referee Gus M. Gleason. Mr. Gleason has opened offices in the McDonald building on West Long avenue, where anyone is privileged to go and talk over their troubles in regard to compensation, injuries and possibilities of a hearing, etc. Mr. Gleason has selected Frank A. Hess as his chief clerk and Mr. Hess will be in charge of the office, as Referee Gleason will be out in the field a large part of the time. Harry Engle, formerly stenographer with the B. & P. railroad, has been selected by Mr. Gleason for this important work of the compensation bureau.

Mr. Gleason has scheduled compensation hearings for the coming two weeks as follows:

Tuesday, May 11, 10:30 a. m., John Scollins' office, Houtzdale. Clara Schrock vs. Beulah Shaft Coal Company.

Thursday, May 20, 10:00 o'clock, Pantall Hotel, Punxsutawney. J. B. Zietler vs. People's Planing Company.

Daniel Ball vs. Punxsutawney Coal Manufacturing Company.

Maurice L. Moore vs. Frostburg Coal Company.

Friday, May 21, 11:00 o'clock, Stein Hotel, Kittanning. John Granelli vs. West Penn Manufacturing Company.

Monday, May 24, 10:30 a. m., David Hennis vs. Morrisdale Coal Company.

John L. Jones vs. Cunard Coal Company.

Wednesday, May 26, 11:00 a. m., Court House, Indiana. John Minsky vs. Onondaga Coal Company.

While all of the above cases are listed for hearings outside of the city in DuBois, there are a large number of cases that will be heard in DuBois, the date for these to be announced in due season.

WOMAN SUFFRAGE GETS ATTENTION IN LOUISIANA

BATON ROUGE, La., May 10.—The Louisiana Legislature meeting in special session today will immediately take up the question of ratifying woman's suffrage amendment. The suffragists have concentrated their efforts to obtain ratification of the measure in Louisiana as 35 states have already ratified it. The legislature is largely Democratic and suffragists point out that if Louisiana makes the measure constitutional the Democratic party will win favor in the eyes of the women voters.

STOCK OPENINGS

NEW YORK, May 10.—Replage Steel opened at 90 1/2 up 3/4, American Can and Founbury at 135 up 3/4, Studebaker at 80 1/2 up 1/2, Vanadium at 81 1/4 up 1/2, United States Steel at 96 1/2 off 1/2, Crucible at 143 off 3/4, United States Rubber at 100 1/2 up 1/4, American Locomotive at 90 1/2 up 1/2, Bethlehem B. at 95 1/2 off 1/4, Midvale at 45 1/4.

GERMAN ARMY NEARS DEMOBILIZATION

BERLIN, May 19, Delayed.—Reduction of the German army to 200,000 men will be completed by May 15, it was announced officially here today.

The establishment of the office in DuBois will mean that a large number of people will be visiting it each week, and it is gratifying to note that this office is to be located in this city. Mr. Gleason has been working on cases for some little time, but with the organization of his office and clerical force he can go ahead with great speed and facility.

As previously stated Mr. Gleason wants the public to feel perfectly free in seeking the aid of his office in DuBois, there are a large number of cases that will be heard in DuBois, the date for these to be announced in due season.

NO RECOUNT WILL BE MADE IN NEW JERSEY PRIMARY

NEWARK, N. J., May 10.—Possibility of a recount of votes in the New Jersey Presidential reference primaries was ended today when the Johnson forces who obtained a court order for a recount of the votes failed to post the required $50,000. Judge Gemmer's order granting Harry Calish, attorney for the Johnson group an order for a recount required that $50,000 be deposited by noon today. Johnson headquarters in Manhattan said that the $50,000 could not be raised.

MOTHERS MEETINGS SCHEDULED FOR ALL THIS WEEK

In order to furnish an opportunity for a discussion of the subject of Children Health, Mothers' Meetings will be held this week in various parts of town.

Each meeting will begin at 3:00 p. m. and the program will consist of a talk by Dr. W. Scott Piper, on the subject "Some Physical Causes for Underweight Conditions," and a talk on "Food for Children," by Margaret Biery, of the State College Home Economics Extension Service.

The schedule for the meetings is as follows:

Tuesday, May 11.—3:30 p. m. Third Ward School building (West Side).

Wednesday, May 12.—3:00 p. m. Fourth Ward School building (East End).

Thursday, May 13.—3:00 p. m. In McMillan Street School building (Leonard and Glades).

Friday, May 14.—3:00 p. m. Junior High School building.

ALLIED CHURCHES OF CLEARFIELD IN PRAYER TONIGHT

A series of prayer meetings are scheduled for a large number of the Christian homes of this community, as a part of the united campaign for a better, cleaner-living Clearfield. This is a part of the universal movement throughout America and should be generally and warmly supported by all Christian people.

The prayer meetings for tonight will be held in the following homes: Miss Ella Shaw, Market street; Alex Patterson, Locust street; R. R. Stewart, Bridge street, 8 p. m.; Gus Soderlund, Dorey street; Mrs. Mertie Leavy, South Second street; John Kennard, Fourth street; Paul Kolbe, Mill road; C. G. Johnson, Nichols street; Hon. Singleton Bell, West Front street; John Confer, Dorey street; W. J. Cochran, Turnpike avenue.

You are invited to attend the meeting nearest your home. Service lasts but half an hour.

Join in the inter-denominational effort to make this town a better town by deepening the spiritual life of the people.

COMMONS DEBATES IRISH HOME RULE THIS AFTERNOON

LONDON, May 10.—The government was expected to encounter its first serious opposition to Premier Lloyd George's bill for home rule in Ireland when the measure came up for debate in the House of Commons this afternoon. Commons will consider whether Ireland shall have two parliaments as the new bill now provides for or only one. Herbert Asquith opposition leader has joined the Laborites in favor of a single parliament idea. One of the Mt. Joy hunger strikers, Sinn Feiner named Redmond released on April 15, died yesterday following an operation for appendicitis. Sinn Feiners declare he was a martyr because his death was caused by weakness. Forty-two of Warmwood Scrubbs hunger strikers and 22 of those imprisoned in Belfast have been released. New disorders have been reported in some districts in Ireland during the week end. Radicals attacked the police barracks at Newton Hamilton, a small town in County Armagh, but were repulsed after they had dynamited the building. The police barracks at Cloyan, 18 miles east and south of Cork was dynamited and destroyed by fire. Three buildings in the vicinity were burned.

The treaty with the league of nations hanging around his neck like a millstone, apparently is what the rank and file of Democrats will have to swallow in the coming presidential campaign, if President Wilson continues his way and he usually does in party affairs. The treaty with the League reservations or no treaty at all is the option of the Republicans. If the Democratic national convention decides to endorse the Wilsonian document and the Republicans make their campaign on a no league issue, it will make a very interesting campaign.

The forest fire which is raging on the mountains near Clearfield will mean a financial loss to the owners of the land of several thousand dollars, while the economic loss to the people in general will be beyond estimate. The Progress would like to see a rapid investigation of the origin of these fires. Criminal carelessness is the cause. They will continue until somebody suffers.

Every mother should attend the mothers' meetings to be held in the various school buildings this week.

In view of the Wilsonian recognition of the Mexican republic under Carranza, and his allowing Carranza followers the right of way over United States soil just last week, we opine that Mr. Wilson knew about as much about the temper of the Mexican people as he did of the American people on the League of Nations issue. The Mexican situation has been bungled about as badly as any international problem this nation ever faced.

The After Effects of Pneumonia

This is No. 2 of a series of advertisements, prepared by a competent physician, explaining how certain diseases which attack the air passages such as Pneumonia, Influenza, Whooping Cough, Measles or even a long continued Cold—often leave these organs in an inflamed, congested state, thus affording a favorable foothold for invading germs. And how Vick's Vapo-Rub may be of value in this condition.

Pneumonia attacks the air cells of the lungs. An inflammation is set up and matter is thrown off which causes the air cells to solidify, thus preventing the natural flow of blood thru the lungs. This "backing up" of the blood causes the heart to pump harder, just as stepping on a hose increases the water pressure, which is the reason why, during this disease, the physician watches the overburdened heart so carefully.

After recovery the lungs are filled with a mass of wreckage—the debris of the battle—which must be gotten rid of by a process known as resolution. Frequently, inflamed spots remain, congestion persists, cough hangs on, and the least exposure brings on a cold that is hard to get rid of. If neglected, such damaged air passages may easily develop serious disease of the lungs.

Such cases should always continue under a physician's care and frequent examinations should be made to see that nature is properly continuing the rebuilding process. Nightly applications of Vick's VapoRub will aid nature in this work. Because Vicks acts locally by stimulation thru the skin to draw out the inflammation, attract the blood away from the congested spots and relieve the cough. In addition, the medicinal ingredients of Vicks are vaporized by the body heat. These vapors are breathed in all night long, thus bringing the medication to bear directly upon the inflamed areas.

Vicks should be rubbed in over the throat and chest until the skin is red—then spread on thickly and covered with hot flannel cloths. Leave the clothing loose around the neck and the bed clothes arranged in the form of a funnel so the vapors arising may be freely inhaled. If the cough is annoying, swallow a small bit of Vicks the size of a pea.

Samples to new users will be sent free on request to the Vick Chemical Company, 232 Broad Street, Greensboro, N. C.

NEWS OF OUR NEIGHBORS CURWENSVILLE

Last Friday evening the spirit of Mrs. G. Lloyd Addleman passed from earth into its final home. Mrs. Addleman has been in ill health for a number of years, but for the past ten weeks had been unable to leave her bed, she having no real bodily disease, death was brought about by a general breaking down of a once rugged and robust constitution. Her maiden name was Anna Marie Cleaver, a daughter of Nathan and Cynthia Cleaver, and was born and reared in Pike township on December 15, 1842, where she resided until her marriage with Mr. Borsall took place. After a few years of wedded life he died, leaving her a widow with one son, Ruben Borsall. Her second marriage with G. Lloyd Addleman took place December 21, 1869, with whom she lived until the day of her death, and who survives her at the advanced age of 77 years. The family resided on a farm in Pike township until about seventeen years ago, when Mr. Addleman purchased the Hartsock property and moved to town. Mrs. Addleman was a loving wife and mother and also a devout Christian, espousing the faith of the Methodist church early in life, and while her health permitted rarely missed a service. She is survived by her husband, three sons, Charley and Harry Addleman and Rueben Borsall, of this place, one sister, Mrs. Johnston Holden, of Pike township, whose precarious health did not permit her to attend the funeral, and one brother, George Cleaver, also of Pike township; also five grandchildren and five great-grandchildren. Her funeral was held from the home this afternoon at two o'clock. Rev. J. C. Collins, pastor of the M. E. church, having charge of the service. Interment of the body was made in Oak Hill cemetery. Thus another good woman has journeyed to her heavenly home, leaving behind her a home full of sorrow and grief.

John Reesman and wife and Mrs. Helen Reesman, of Tyrone, were Sunday visitors with Curwensville friends. The Reesman family were former residents of the town, but moved to Tyrone some years ago, where Mr. Reesman is employed in the paper mill.

TOO WEAK TO DO ANYTHING

A Serious Feminine Illness Remedied By Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Casco, Wis.—"After the birth of each of my children I had displacement and was so weak I couldn't do anything. I found a book about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound so I thought I would try it, and after taking it I soon felt better. That was fifteen years ago and I have felt well ever since except that I had a slight attack of the trouble some time ago and took some more of your Compound and was soon all right again. I always recommend your medicine and you may publish my testimonial for the benefit of other women."—Mrs. JAMES BECK, JR., R. 1, Box 29, Casco, Wis.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs, contains no narcotic or harmful drugs, and today holds the record of being the most successful remedy for female ills in this country, and thousands of voluntary testimonials prove this fact.

If you have the slightest doubt that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will help you, write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (Confidential), Lynn, Mass., for advice. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman, and held in strict confidence.

Allen Shoff, manager and owner of the Bickford store company of this place, is contemplating the putting in of a general store at Lumber City, within the next month. Should he do so Raymond Wingert, now a clerk in the Bickford store, will be transferred to Lumber City as manager of the new store.

The Salvation Army members visited Curwensville yesterday and gave a preaching and song service on various of the town's streets.

Mother's Day meeting in the Methodist church yesterday was a success in every particular. The congregation was an unusually large one, as all of the other churches were holding services at the same hour. The minister preached an especial sermon directed to the mothers, as to their duties to family and church. The white carnation was predominant throughout the church.

Quite a throng of Curwensville residents took their cars and went out on the mountains yesterday afternoon, visiting the different hunting lodges etc they returned.

A crowd of young people drove out to one of the hunting camps on Saturday morning and spent that day and Sunday fishing and studying the beauties of nature's sunrise from a high elevation.

It was reported on Saturday that at a school meeting held on last Thursday evening, Prof. Shields had been retained for another year. It is said that he was not the unanimous choice of the board, but there were enough votes cast for his retention.

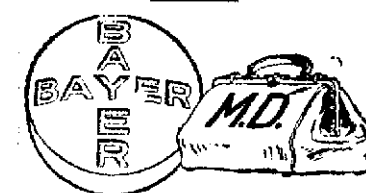

The brick walls of the new blouse factory will be completed by the middle of next week, and then the structure will be ready for the roof and inside work.

There were very few farmers in town on Saturday, they all being too busy engaged in seeding oats and plowing corn ground. They are about two or three weeks late with this work and are straining every nerve to make hay while the sun shines.

Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Linsberry, of Woodland, were shopping in town on Saturday.

KEEP LOOKING YOUNG

It's Easy—If You Know Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a sallow complexion—dark rings under your eyes—pimples—a bilious look in your face—dull eyes with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.

Dr. Edwards, a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel, are gentle in their action yet always effective. They bring about that natural buoyancy which all should enjoy by toning up the liver and clearing the system of impurities.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are known by their olive color. 10c and 25c.

of a wide-spread tree.

She colored vividly as I rose to greet her with outstretched hand. "Oh, Mr. Nelson," she cried, "I don't know what you will think of me, asking you to meet me here. I am in trouble. I must tell someone. I don't know what to do!"

"The only thing to do," I suggested, "is to begin at the beginning and tell me the whole story. I've sisters of my own. Just pretend you are one of my sisters and let me help you."

She looked at me thoughtfully, studying me as if questioning whether or not I was to be trusted, and apparently deciding in the affirmative, told me an amazing story.

"It's all about my sister, Claire," she began. "She's five years older than I. She's a lovely girl, but she's—that is, she used to be—impulsive, romantic, and headstrong. She and my mother never got along well together, and she was sent away to boarding school. One winter, it was six years ago, mother was in Europe and only Dad and I were at home."

She sighed sadly. Evidently her words were bringing back to her moments of heartache.

"To make a long story short, Claire ran away from the school and married—married a French chauffeur employed by a family in the neighborhood. She took me into her confidence a week later, and I—well, I told Dad. There was a terrible time about it all. Dad found out that her husband was already married, had a wife and child right here in this city. He had the marriage annulled and managed to keep everything out of the papers. He threatened Claire's husband with prison and made him go back to France. Dad was simply wonderful. No one knew anything about Claire's escapade except ourselves, the principal of the school, and the judge down in Nassau county, who ordered the marriage annulled. Dad kept mother about until after it was all over, and to this day she never has heard a word about it."

"Your father must be a wonderful man," I said enthusiastically.

"He was," she said simply. "He has been dead two years."

"Oh, I'm so sorry," I cried, "I did not know."

"If Dad were alive he would know what to do. You see, when he died, there was not much money left. We're really little better than paupers. We've been living from day to day on our tiny capital, and Mother has been working every wire to arrange a good match for Claire. I wanted to do something, to go out and earn a living for myself, but she never would consent. She insisted I'd be denouncing Claire's prospects if I went into trade, as she calls it, and I promised her I'd do nothing until after Claire is safely married."

"And is she to be married?" I asked.

A troubled expression came into her face.

"She was to be, but now I don't know. She is engaged to marry young Harry D. Thayer, who is worth a lot of money, but someone has found out about her secret."

"How did they find out?" I asked eagerly. I understood now the mysterious meeting in the park that had brought me first into touch with Barbara Bradford. Some kind of scandal was being talked about.

"Where did you keep them?" I asked.

"In the wall safe in my sitting room."

"In the wall safe?" I cried, thinking in bewilderment of the coincidence that these papers should have had a similar hiding place to the Gaston jewels which had vanished so strangely.

"Yes," she answered, plainly puzzled at my bewilderment. "It was an excellent hiding place. No one but my self had the combination. I don't know who could have taken them. I found the safe locked as it always was."

"When did you first discover the papers were missing?"

"Let me see," she pondered. "Claire's engagement was announced at a dinner three weeks ago last Thursday. The newspapers on Sunday carried a brief notice of it. Two days later the first note came."

"What note?"

She reached into the pocket of her riding habit and drew forth a folded slip of paper.

"I brought it with me to show you; here, this is the first one."

Like the mysterious note I myself had received only the preceding night, this one was not enclosed in an envelope. It was just a folded slip, addressed in typewriting to "Miss Claire Bradford." On the other side was this message:

"What if Thayer knew about your being married before? How much will you give to get those papers back?"

"Where did you get this?" I asked. "I found it on the floor of my bedroom one morning when I got up late. I gave it to my sister without having read it, thinking she had dropped it there. She read it and screamed and fainted. Fortunately Mother was out of the house at the time. Naturally I read the note then. I went to the safe and found the documents gone. Claire has been nearly crazy ever since. She insists that it is all my fault. She says I ought to have destroyed the papers, but I couldn't, could I?"

"Of course not," I replied warmly. "You did quite right in keeping them. It was not your fault they were stolen."

"I couldn't destroy them. Dad had told me to keep them," she said simply. "What did you do then? Did you tell your mother?"

"Oh, no, she must never know. Dad did not want her ever told anything about it. We talked it over, Claire and I, and decided to put a personal advertisement in the papers. It simply said, 'Liberal reward and no questions asked for return of important papers.'"

"Were there any answers?"

"Yes and no. One morning there was a second note."

"Delivered like the first?"

"Yes, I found it, too, on the floor of my bedroom. Here it is."

More amazed and perplexed than ever by the growing ramifications of the plots of the thieves that seemed to involve us both, I took the paper and read:

"Ten thousand is our price for the papers. Pay it or you'll never marry Thayer."

"Did you go then to meet the man in the park?"

"Not until after I got a third note, more threatening than the first and second. Claire and I talked it over and over, trying to think who could have taken the papers. We only kept two servants now, Sarah and Mary, and they both have been with us since we were children. It could not have been either of them. They think as much of us as our own mother does."

"Do you suppose the man that she married may have learned of your father's death and have returned from France to try to blackmail her?"

"We thought of that. The notes did not come from him. They do not read as if a Frenchman wrote them."

"Who could it be?" I said more to myself than to her.

"Then there was another note," she went on. "It demanded that Claire wear a red carnation and meet the writer in the park and bring ten thousand dollars. That was the time I first met you. Your presence must have frightened them off, for we had no more demands until night before last."

"Did you have ten thousand with you that night I first met you?"

She shook her head.

"We haven't ten thousand dollars in the world. Outside of our furniture and our jewels and our motor, we have very little. If all the bills we owe were paid, we'd have almost nothing at all."

"What did you propose doing when you met the man—or men?"

"I didn't know. I was going to try to plead with them to give me the papers. I would have promised anything to have gotten them back."

"But the man—the men—might have harmed you."

She smiled incredulously.

"Hardly. There was little danger of their attacking me there in the park so near the avenue, with people constantly passing, and besides, I carried this."

She reached again into the pocket of her habit and brought forth a vicious-looking automatic.

"It was Dad's," she said. "He taught me to shoot with it, though I don't think either of us thought there would come a time when I might need it."

"What did the last note say?"

"Here it is."

This was written and folded as the others had been, on the most ordinary kind of writing paper. It read:

"Unless we get the money Wednesday, Thayer gets the papers Thursday. No wedding then for yours. Same bunch at six-thirty."

"What can I do about it?"

"I'll go in your place," I suggested. "Oh, no, I couldn't permit that."

"Let me explain," I hastened to say. "I'm in this mystery as deep as you are. Only last night I discovered that all the Gaston jewels which had been left in my custody are gone."

"Not stolen?" she cried. "The Gaston pearls?"

"Yes," I replied, "the pearls, too."

"Why, they are worth two hundred thousand dollars at least. What have you done about it? Have you notified the police?"

"No, as yet I have told no one of the robbery but yourself."

INSIST ON GENUINE FORD PARTS

Colds, Coughs and Grippe
BY DR. SAMUEL HAMILTON

Commonly the first symptom of a cold is a chilly feeling, accompanied by sneezing or a tickling in the throat. The most frequent causes are getting wet or cold feet, or going from hot rooms suddenly into cold ones, catching cold from contact with other persons in crowded street cars or assemblies. Frequently there is an inner cause, namely, the stagnation of the blood, caused by constipation or biliousness. No one ever takes cold unless constipated or exhausted, and having what we call indigestion, which is attended with impoverished blood and exhaustion of nerve force. There is a continual absorption of poisons into the system, unless the entire intestinal tract is kept clear and clean as possible. For this there is nothing better than Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. It is the common practice of every doctor in the land to give a good purgative in any case where the humor of what will develop. The first thing to do is to get the bowels moving. For the cough there is nothing better than the old Golden Rule Cough Syrup, a botanical extract which Dr. Pierce put on the market many years ago. This contains no alcohol but does contain wild cherry leaf, which is a good cough remedy, and also contains extracts which are not only good for the system but clear the lungs and the is the very best alternative and tonic that I have ever known. It is a scientific method of treating the blood by improving the purifying function of the patient. The 'Medical Discovery' is a purifying and restoring the enfeebled digestive organs, so that food taken into the system will be digested and drawn up and assimilated by the body. The result is the clearing of the stomach, lungs and blood than the old remedy, which is a purgative in liquid or tablet form.

Foley's
Honey and Tar
COMPOUND

AN OLD RELIABLE FAMILY
REMEDY, recommended for coughs, colds, tickling of the throat, spasmodic croup, whooping cough, la grippe, and bronchial coughs, hoarseness, etc.

The First Dose Gave Relief

C. E. Summers, Holdrege, Neb., writes:
"Some time ago I contracted a very severe cold due to exposure. My cough got so bad
I could hardly sleep for two or three nights.
A friend of mine recommended Foley's Honey and Tar Compound, and I got a 60c bottle. The very first dose relieved me. I took a second dose before going to bed and can truthfully say I did not cough once all night. By using as directed the next two days my cough was entirely gone, and I give Foley's Honey and Tar full credit for my speedy and permanent recovery."

For more than thirty years
Foley's Honey and Tar has been used with satisfaction and success.
Sold everywhere.

Doctors Favor New Tasteless Castor Oil

New Process Makes Castor Oil
Absolutely Tasteless.

Doctors have always prescribed castor oil when a real laxative is needed, and all mothers know how much trouble it is to get children to take it. There need be no more trouble, for doctors are now recommending KELLOGG'S TASTELESS CASTOR OIL, from which ABSOLUTE-LY all nauseating taste has been removed. Children take it readily. They need not even know it is castor oil. This splendid new form of the good old family remedy is the result of a remarkable process perfected by the chemists of Spencer Kellogg & Sons, Inc. In strength and purity KELLOGG'S TASTELESS CASTOR OIL is exactly the same as the old-fashioned disagreeable kind. Nothing has been removed but the taste. Do not accept substitutes, if you want a really TASTELESS castor oil. At all good druggists. Two sizes, 35c and 65c.

John P. Rogers, of DuBois, one of the Democratic candidates for the Legislature, who is running on a decidedly wet platform and makes no bones about announcing that fact, was a Clearfield visitor today.

Use Sulphur To Heal Your Skin

Broken Out Skin and Itching Eczema
Helped Over Night.

For unsightly skin eruptions, rash or blotches on the face, neck, arms or body, you do not have to wait for relief from torture or embarrassment. declares a noted skin specialist. Apply a little Mentho-Sulphur and improvement shows next day. Because of its germ destroying properties, nothing has ever been found to take the place of this sulphur preparation. The moment you apply it healing begins. Only those who have had unsightly skin troubles can know the delight this Mentho-Sulphur brings. Even fiery, itching eczema is dried right up. Get a small jar from any good druggist and use it like cold cream.

The Atlantic Story is Told in Miles

At the end of the year, the mileage count of Atlantic Gasoline is told in figures—on the right side of the ledger. It tells of big territory covered, delivery-time saved, quick transportation—and quicker collections. All that because it saves trouble on the road and keeps your trucks going.

Atlantic means economy, because it all burns and is turned into steady, volatile power. It vaporizes fast and works on a lean mixture. It holds no disputes with the spark. Atlantic has range. It compensates for irregularities of climate and temperature. It performs uniformly in mountain country or lowland.

And it works cleanly, without fouling carburetor or cylinders. On with the load and away, with a quick easy start on cold mornings and quick pickup in thick traffic when the cop says "go". Isn't that your kind of gasoline?

It's always on tap at the Red Pump where the Atlantic sign invites you to take on quality—Atlantic quality, with a capital Q.
